REDACTED

Dear

CC

I write with apologies for not having responded to your two letters and your phone call. I have recently been overseas and on annual leave and am just beginning to catch up on my correspondence.

I write to acknowledge receipt of both your letters.

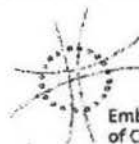

It is with great sadness that I read your letters, recognising the depth of the sharing of your story. I recognise that it takes great courage to share such memories.

In reading your letters, I hear something of your desire to deal with the experience of life. As you live at some distance from here I wonder if you might allow me to put you in touch with a priest in the area where you live. I could inquire of such a person who might be available. In this way you might obtain support as you continue to work through your experience and come to a place of healing and peace.

With best wishes and blessings

The Right Reverend Keith Slater
Bishop of the Diocese of Grafton
