

My husband answered Father that he may join the Navy with that he replied that we should try to deter [REDACTED] from that idea that the Army was the only service to join as he had been in the Army Chaplain & that the Navy is where one picks up all the diseases because one is away for a long time & the ship visits so many places, and that it can lead to relations with members of the crew as there are no females. My husband & I were horrified at this statement & I made & felt it was out of taste. He has never visited our home again as we told him we disagreed plus we could not afford to give to the Sacrificial Offering. At that time our youngest son was an altar server because he was told he had to & was automatically rostered on without our knowledge [REDACTED] did continue serving for a short time afterwards & then he did not go to serve & I picked on it & was not the same towards him. I feel I am a schizophrenic type of person & not in a right frame of mind in any of ways. To think that the Presentation ^{was} ~~not~~ to leave some years back because of the vicar priest & now Mr. Bleeman resigning must be something is seriously wrong ^{with} the way the church is supposed to be working because frankly it is working very well at all.

Yours sincerely
