Dear LJ

I have been wondering how you are and as I have had no luck in ringing you decided it was time to write instead! I must have been trying you at all the wrong times but I do apologise that it is so long since we talked. When we did last have a conversation you had had one telephone counselling session with someone from Relationships Australia and were hoping to shortly get to see your counsellor face to face. I hope that you did manage to do so and that things went well.

When I met with the police last they approved my moving forward on those cases they were not pursuing ( very few ); you will not be surprised to hear that they do not want me to move forward as yet on your statement in relation to LA as they ' are still pursuing their enquiries. '

LJ all of this must be taking it's toll on you and I do hope you are getting support from family and friends. Have you met or talked to Eileen Young as yet? You will have heard that Eileen was appointed some weeks ago to provide whatever support she can to families of former students of St. Ann's. I know she is gradually ringing around trying to catch up with as many people as possible. If you have not heard as yet you may want to ring her on her work number 8301 6626. And of course as always you can ring me if there is ever anything I can do for you, I know I am not easy to catch but I will ring you back should you leave a message.

With kind regards
Yours sincerely
