FILE NOTE

Today Father Paul Pavlou telephoned the Vicar General's Office and I eventually spoke to him, indicating that while the parish is going very well and he loves the people of Healesville, he is battling with the isolation up there. He is seeking advice of friends and talking to Father Martin Ashe. He asked what my intentions were. I indicated that most appointments were normally for six years, but if there was a reason for a shorter time I was certainly open to that. He asked whether he might seek to be appointed to Boronia. I indicated to him that, while I was open to a longer time in Healesville, if he genuinely wished to apply for Boronia his application would be considered on a level playing field.

11th October, 2006.

ARCHBISHOP OF MELBOURNE.
