Memorandum

However, on another note, Michael Salmon did raise the issue of the Ellis case with me and specifically mentioned the fact that Mr Harrison had informed Michael that Ellis's Solicitor (Begg) had warned him that Ellis was in a very fragile state and was concerned about the Archdiocese pursuing costs awarded by the Court. It may well be that you can catch up with Michael sometime after his return on 7 January. I would emphasise that from this particular discussion the possibility of Ellis committing an irrational act should not be underestimated.
