Dear All

As you know, Ellis had until 5.00pm yesterday to file an application in the High Court seeking special leave. Although an application was not filed, I understand that he did try to file documents earlier in the day but was turned away at the Registry due to administrative problems with his application. Under the High Court Rules 2004, he can file his application out of time although he must concurrently file an affidavit explaining the reason for the late filing.

Therefore, I expect that an application will be filed, if not today then Monday once he has had an opportunity to draft an affidavit seeking to explain the short delay.

I will of course contact you as soon as I hear anything.

Kind regards

John D
