Good Morning Ian,

My thoughts on the counselling fund to be established are as follows:

1. Initial fund of $10K - $15K per student who was abused by YJ – i.e. $50K - $75K in total. The fund is not available to people who have not been confirmed by the Court as victims of YJ.
2. Fund is available to meet the costs of counselling incurred and ongoing counselling costs for the student and / or their immediate family members.
3. The fund is in no way an admission of any guilt on the part of the School but rather a pastoral consideration that the School would like to establish.
4. The counsellors to be used are at the sole discretion of the families involved and the School will simply pay the cost incurred – be that net of any private medical cover held or not.
5. The funds will be held in a designated School account that is established for the sole purpose of administering the fund.
6. The School can either pay the counsellor directly (upon invoice) or reimburse the families upon presenting of the invoice after the event. All that needs to happen is the invoice be mailed (emailed) to the Bursar and he will make payment to either the counsellor directly or into a nominated bank account given by the family.
7. The fund would have an initial life of say 10 years.
8. Should the fund be exhausted prior to the expiration of that term the School would consider placing additional funds into the account.

WD is very keen to meet with the families within the next week to put this in place and to get the matter progressed.

What are your thoughts?

Kind Regards
