Dear Sirs

BRISBANE GRAMMAR SCHOOL - KEVIN LYNCH

Thank you for your facsimile of 18 September 2000.

As you have not articulated the basis of any claim sought to be asserted by your clients, it is impossible for us to confirm with any certainty the legal entity against which such claims ought to be asserted.

Our client is in that position because you have not articulated the nature or basis of your client's claims. Should you not do so prior to commencing proceedings, and a need later arises to amend those pleadings, any claim for costs will be resisted and this letter brought to the Court's attention in that regard.

Yours faithfully
