Yossi – do not make excuses for your folly

It really doesn't matter if you have a problem with the statement or not – the Halocho is muskam according to that statement. You are not a posek.

If I would explain to you why your concern is not relevant, and how you do not understand the aguda statement or the Halachic issues , you would not accept the explanation anyway and it would result in another slew of emails – so I won't bother. You also do not have knowledge or understanding of the AVL case.

You should just listen to the advice I gave you.

Dear Uncle R' Moshe

I just saw Yoram in Yeshiva and he told me that there will be a public statement from the Botei Dinim to report abuse. The only real problem I have with the statement even though it's beikor a klolus statement and now more for PR is that this statement is now noygaya bepoyel in Melbourne with SDC even though that I hear that he's done Tshuva according to what I heard. BTW I know him well (not in the biblical sense...) and I was and am a friend of his and I really have rachmonus on him...I believe his life and family (including, I've heard from another family member, REDACTED

REDACTED is being ruined now for no good reason... Now you can also understand why I have been Shtureming lately and "not listening" and I do really believe that this is the view of Agudas Yisroel as I elaborated on and should be leHalocho Lemaase for all (even though not necessarily publicised)... I spoke to Tuffy Aron re this whole issue when I saw him a few days ago for a few minutes and he really agreed to me bichlul and to be therefore very careful how and when to report to authorities and how and when these statements should be publicly issued that encourage more reporting of and embarrassing of this and similar cases...
