3. If you are found guilty and the Court takes any of the offences that you have admitted into account, the maximum penalty that may be imposed on you for the offence of which you have been convicted will not exceed the maximum penalty that the Court would have been empowered to impose on you for the offence if no other offence had been taken into account.
4. If the Court takes an offence that you have admitted into account, the Court may make such orders or give such directions with respect to restitution, compensation, costs, forfeiture, disqualification and loss or suspension of a licence or privilege as it would have been empowered to make or give if you had been convicted before the Court of the offence, but will not otherwise impose any separate punishment for the offence.
5. No proceedings may be taken or continued against you in respect of an offence taken into account unless the decision of the Court in respect of which the offence has been taken into account has been quashed or set aside.
6. Your admission cannot be used as evidence against you in any proceedings relating to the offence in respect of which the admission was made or in respect of any other offence specified in the list on the back of this document if:
