DoCS confirms investigations at private school

14 October 2000

The Department of Community Services (DoCS) today confirmed investigations were being made into assault allegations at a Sydney private school.

Enquiries are being conducted by Ashfield Joint Investigation Team, which is made up from child protection specialists from DoCS and police.

While investigations into the allegations are continuing, it would be inappropriate to comment further.

Please note: DoCS will not be undertaking any media interviews in relation to this matter as enquiries are still continuing.
