Sunday

Dear Andrew,

I am advised that the course of events was as follows:

- BKY [redacted] raised with D.A.E. (D.ENDEAN) on 26 November the problem the family had in terminating the association
- Mrs. REDACTE discussed the matter with D.A.E. on 28 November
- BKY [redacted] discussed the matter with A.A.T. (Albert TWIGG) on 29 November

What was said on the 28th was substantially the same as what was said on the 29th. BKY [redacted] knows that his mother was not keen on the association. He himself found it more demanding in 1990 than previously. Eventually both BKY [redacted] and his mother decided that the relationship should end, and Mrs. REDACTE wrote a letter not effect to you.

This is (to my knowledge) the third relationship you have had with a pupil which has in the end caused express concern to the family of the pupil and to the pupil himself.

Whether you would expect such a thing or consider it warranted I'm not sure, but the consequence of these relationships has been as follows:

- a) They are interpreted by some as being homosexual and talked about in that vein
- b) They make it harder for you to deal satisfactorily and constructively with pupils in general
- c) They expose the school and myself to the criticism that the school employs a member of staff whose behaviour is interpreted (at least by some) as being homosexual
- d) They set up barriers of misunderstanding between yourself and your colleagues.

I believe that over this particular matter you must give Mrs. REDACTE an undertaking that you will not visit the family or attempt to see BKY [redacted] against their wishes. I must also make it plain that the consequences described in the preceding paragraph are already actively at work. That puts both me and you in a difficult situation which we must attempt to resolve. It seems to me that one of these two alternatives must be taken:

- a) We must agree that there is a problem for the school and parents and that there is a personal problem (yours) over which you need help and counselling
- b) you must offer your resignation.

Yours sincerely,

J.LEWIS
