I think what needs saying is no amount of money ever makes up for waking in the early hours every day of your life wanting to walk out of such a shit movie and join your pals who have

A person would need to be a total effing imbecile to think it would

what we need is support to be there unrelated to consumeristic crap buy a effing beemer and you'll be happy or religious lies ...

support to find meaningful engagement and the not unrelated support to develop meaningful relationships

What the fuck would I know

There's more to life than lived experience don't I know

Subject: Redress What price do we put on a death wish that wakes us in the small hours every day ?

What price decades of institutionalisation ostracism etc ?
I see mention made of $65,000 as a compensation figure Someone has to be effing joking

This is the short version

There's a longer version available upon request
But like you I expect to be paid for my years of experience

Regards
