
From: Terry Dwyer
Sent: Saturday, 31 January 2015 1:58 PM
To: redress
Subject: Compensation

Dear Sirs

Are you seriously suggesting that totally innocent taxpayers and donors to charities should be made to pay for the criminal actions of others?

If so, that is bizarre in terms of legal theory and economic logic.

One might as well say any man should be dragged off the street and charged whenever a rape has occurred.

It is the guilty who should pay, not the innocent and if justice cannot be done in this world, that is a common failing but it surely will be done in the next.

Yours faithfully

Dr Terence Dwyer
Dwyer Lawyers